THE NEED FOR MODERN MACCABEES

Rabbi Maurice N. Eisendrath

Few have been the periods of history when there seemed a more vital need for a reincarnation of the courage of our ancient Maccabees than in our turbulent contemporary world. From all over the earth, in spite of the era of sophistication and scientific enlightenment in which we find ourselves, come harrowing stories of prejudice on a rampage, persecutions without reason or end, poignant, soul searing suffering endured by our brethren in every land. Economic boycott with its attendant starvation stalks abroad and callous indeed were he whose heart does not bleed for the ravaging afflictions which our fellow Jews are once again being made to endure. In Poland alone, according to the official reports of the Joint Distribution Committee, as rendered by its European director, Dr. Bernard Kahn, more than seventy thousand Jewish merchants have been compelled to close their doors; one hundred thousand families with their seventy-five thousand children are on the verge of utter destitution, while half of the entire population of this land—generously benefitted, by the way, by the war which was fought ostensibly at least, to make the world safe for minorities—is without any means of livelihood whatsoever. For weeks now, out of this selfsame country, proud member of the League of Nations, likewise pledged to care for all oppressed minority peoples, have come the most lurid and heart lacerating tales of student riots reminiscent only of a barbaric day which one might have thought had forever passed away.

Much the same situation, according to Dr. Kahn, exists in Rumania, where four hundred thousand Jews are in dire distress. In Germany, the Hitlerite menace becomes ever more real, while even as we write we read the disillusioning news that in Czecho-Slovakia, ruled over by the gentle and tolerant Masaryk, anti-semitic outbreaks have occurred in several of her leading universities. Truly it is a day of darkness, of deepest darkness, seemingly without a single ray of light.

As we kindle the Chanukah tapers, however, calling to mind the heroic Maccabees and the brave deeds they wrought, we cannot wholly despair. This Chanukah feast, is indeed a festival of hope, and as the Maccabees achieve the victory over the untoward and overwhelming circumstances of their day, as out of the darkness which enshrouded them then, there arose a light which miraculously flamed on and has never since been wholly extinguished, so must we believe that once again the spirit of Israel, the light of tolerance and understanding will triumph over the Prince of Blackness and Bigotry, who reigns so savagely and satanically today.

To achieve this, however, we must emulate the spirit of those daring Maccabees. By this we do not mean that we shall rise up in armed revolt and give violent battle to our brutal enemies, for personally, we are convinced that in this age at least such procedure were suicidal, futile and abortive. What we imply, however, is that there must be the same courage and sacrifice which characterized those Hebraic martyrs of old, the same willingness to suffer, may-hap to die for the sake of Israel's faith, for we are convinced that only as that faith—its ideals of justice, its passion for righteousness, its quest for brotherhood and peace—is realized, will there come healing for us and our fellow Jews.

The recent bitter recrudescence of anti-Jewish feeling and activity, for example, according to all authoritative observers, is the result primarily of the present collapse, the economic plight of those European lands. And that new born persecution will continue, we feel sure, until order is brought out of the present international, financial, and domestic chaos. Maccabees are needed to face unflinchingly this burning problem of the day, and to proclaim from the very housetops the prophetic principles of our past. In return, further martyrdom may be ours. More acute suffering may for a time be our sole reward. But it is the only way by which certain healing will ever come. Only a truly emancipated mankind, a free and equitable civilization will universally respect or even love the Jew.

The Chanukah festival is a summons to such a consecrated service. Whereas today we cringe and crawl in abject fear and trembling lest we be the next to suffer, constantly cautioning silence and restraint in bringing our prophetic preachment to the erring sons of men, this happy feast brings to mind the haunting and enobling memory of men who feared no agony of body or soul, nay, who quaked not before death itself in the defense of their glowing ideals. Such is the message of the Maccabees to the modern Jew. Fail not. Falter not. Fight on! Kindle the tapers of the spirit and continue bravely to be an "Or l'goyim," a light unto all peoples in this so darkened and disheartening day.

We use filtered rain-soft water in laundering your CLOTHES —and that is just one reason why things washed OUR way come back cleaner and last longer!

Six hundred gallons of filtered, rain soft water is our average for each family washing. The water is changed over and over again—from nine to twelve times depending on the article.

Each fabric receives the laundering process proved best by scientific tests. Colors that are suspected of not being fast are washed separately. Silks, woolens, etc., are given special handling.

Such care as this insures longer life for your clothes and it costs surprisingly little. Call for a routeman and let him help you choose the particular service that fits your requirements and your budget.

"Sometimes when people censure me,
I tell them without reason,
That for what it cost me to be free,
I might have had an easier."

Several persons active in the sponsoring management of the Brunswick Avenue Talmud Torah of Toronto were questioned by the Review last week as to whether the teachers at the institution have been paid regularly of late. Two men said that there is eight weeks' salary owing the teachers. Another said that the teachers had not been paid for some time. Another said that the teachers had not been paid for weeks and weeks because certain parties who had given their support in the past have not been contributing as liberally lately. Mr. Gelber, the papa of this institution of Jewish learning, was alone in the statement that: "The Toronto Talmud Torah is better off than any other organization in America! The teachers are paid right up to date!" The only thing to conclude from this is that Mr. Gelber may have a little surprise up his sleeve. Perhaps he is going to do the handsome thing to save the Talmud Torah from undying disgrace and hand over to the teachers their back pay out of his own pocket. If he does they can never again tell their pupils that there ain't no Jewish Santa Claus!

Recently in Toronto, a discussion in the Board of Control centered about charity drives and public and private philanthropy when Arthur Cohen, representing the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, asked for an additional grant from the city on the plea that charity should be made a civic responsibility.

This column has advocated state provision for the unfortunate on numerous occasions and believes that the time must come when campaigns for charity will be out of date. But, while this is a goal to strive for, it can not be achieved over night nor in time to dish up food for the poor this winter. Under the present system those who have should give adequately and in appreciation of the fact that they still have the right to say how much they will contribute.

At the meeting which Mr. Cohen addressed, Controller George Ramsden said: "I am ashamed of the way the Federation of Charities failed to reach their objective. Montreal put it over." In other words he felt that the utmost had not been done to make the grade. He had in mind the Federation For Community Service but what he said might have been said by some Jew applying it to the Jewish Federation. The controller evidently believes with J. Norman Lyad, cartoonist of the Montreal Standard, that: "Some people can afford good cigars and something for the party, and gasoline to run the family around when the day is sunny and the roads are good, and it doesn't cramp them to pay five dollars to see a show and to spend money for fine raiment and of course to feed themselves well, but when some one tries to collect something for a community fund, that's different and has to be 'thought over' and 'studied from every angle.'"

Apparently the Jews in Toronto on the whole live well and have everything except pride in the results of the recent drive, exact figures for which have not been released to the press. Few people, Gentiles especially, will ever believe that the Jews of Toronto strained themselves by giving to the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies. They are more likely to conclude that the Jews shirked their duty; and are now maligning. As Premier Taschereau pointedly told the Montreal Federation workers: "To-day, in the midst of widespread suffering we must give more than ever and do it as a duty, as a duty akin to good citizenship." The community at large expects the Jewish community to take care of its own poor under the present system. Therefore, it is highly doubtful whether Mr. Cohen improved the general position of the Jewish community any by appearing before the Board of Control and asking it to augment Federation funds by an additional grant. Perhaps it would have been better for the plea for state aid to have come from the Catholic or Protestant Charities, everything considered.

MONTREAL FEDERATION EXCEEDS OBJECTIVE

Jubilant Workers Celebrate

Monday evening at the closing dinner of the Montreal Federation of Jewish Philanthropies held in the Mount Royal Hotel, Samuel Bronfman, the campaign chairman, stirred the gathering with the announcement that the drive for $320,000 had been successful and that a total of $323,094 had been collected during the eight days of strenuous work on the part of over a thousand workers.

The Jewish drive, coming as the third of three, had perhaps the hardest row to hoe, as there was a certain amount of overlapping in the three campaigns. Even up till Saturday there was a considerable percentage of the figure still to be obtained, but a strong rally over the week-end followed by a last concerted effort, found the necessary sum to be forthcoming.

About 1,000 workers gathered in the Mount Royal Hotel to hear the returns. There had been some doubt of success earlier in the evening, but before the detailed returns were given by group chairmen the workers were satisfied that their efforts had succeeded.

Mrs. Samuel Bronfman, wife of the chairman, was the first to call for returns from the women's divisions, and the announcement that the women had exceeded their objective by 100 per cent. was greeted by cheers. Mrs. Bronfman thanked the women workers and declared that she was proud and happy to know that the poor would be well looked after during the coming year.

When the detailed returns were completed, Samuel Bronfman carried to Mark Workman, honorary chairman, the brick house that represented the campaign effort. Every row of bricks represented $16,000 collected. The foundation was laid a week ago by Premier Taschereau, who placed in it the pennies and nickels collected by school children. Mr. Workman was invited to place the roof and he did so as he announced the grand total of $323,094.

"I am very happy tonight," Mr. Workman said. "I am not pessimistic, as a rule, but I confess that when this campaign started I was a little fearful; it looked to me as if we had a hard task before us. Yet I see that we all have hearts and sympathy and love and kindness for the poor. I have lived here for many years and at different times I have been fearful about the future, but now, with such stalwart workers, I think we need have no further fears."

Samuel Bronfman again announced the result to repeated cheers from the audience. After recalling that Premier Taschereau had laid the foundation of the house, Mr. Bronfman thanked all those who had had any part in the campaign. He had a special word of thanks for those gentiles who contributed; their help, he said, had manifested the fact that there exists a deep-rooted belief in the brotherhood of man.

A. H. Jassby, president of the Federation, also offered a word of thanks and presented flowers to Mrs. Samuel Bronfman. Flowers were presented to Mrs. C. B. Feiner, Mrs. Harry Singer, Mrs. S. Jaffe and Mrs. Samuel Sore.

Allan Bronfman, director of the executive committee, declared it was a great relief to know that there will be money for relief next year.

Norman Dawes, chairman of the executive of Financial Federation, congratulated the workers in the Jewish campaign, touched upon the difficulties they must have experienced in following so closely on the heels of two other campaigns, and referred to Federations as the logical means of dispensing charity.

Similar congratulations were offered by Col. O'Brien, chairman of the Federation of Catholic Charities.

After a brief tribute to the work of Samuel Bronfman as chairman of the campaign, Edgar M. Berliner presented him with an engraved watch on behalf of the workers. The whole gathering later adjourned to another room to dance.

Complete returns follow.

Philip Abbey, chairman; Financial and Insurance, $11,700; Dentists, $1,018; Furs, $3,701; Legal and Accounts, $7,969; Jewellery, $7,272.

COMMENTARIES

Heroes—Today and Yesterday

Chanukah commences this Friday evening, December 4th. The eight-day feast speaks primarily of heroes—Jewish contingents men and women who refused to bow before the altar of Zeus.

Every generation in Israel has had its heroes. Every generation, too, has had its moral cowards—Jews, simulationists and assimilationists.

Judaism ever lives through its heroic members who ever dare to remain loyal to the ancient heritage. And we are happy to record that in our day, despite the poison of materialism, despite the onslaught of anti-Jewishness—for the most part Jews are heroic in bearing the burdens of Jewish responsibilities. They do not barter their heritage in order to win favor at the hands of non-Jews. Our day too, has Maccabees! We mean the dignity with which Jewish students in East European countries uphold their Jewish identity. They fight gladly for Jewish honour even as the Maccabees fought centuries ago.

The Archbishop and the Rabbi

We rather like that striking photograph which depicts Rabbi Landman presenting the good-will medal to Archbishop Hanna of San Francisco. This photograph has been inserted in many of the prominent periodicals of the United States, both Jewish as well as non-Jewish.

It would be a fine thing to send the picture of the Rabbi and the Archbishop to Abbe Edouard V. La Vergne, our Catholic friend, who is so troubled by the existence of Israel in this world. We suggest also that His Grace, the Archbishop of San Francisco who has done so much in the cause of better understanding between Jew and Christian—that he send an autographed photograph of Rabbi Isaac Landman and himself to the L'Action Catholique, mouthpiece of the Catholic Church in the Province of Quebec. This may prove helpful to bring home to many in this corner of the globe that the age of bigotry is waning; that men must no longer stir flames of racial antipathy—that Jews and Gentiles are tied by common human interests—by things bigger than their racial parties.

Pity Poland!

Stephen Wise in his recent report to the American Jewish Congress regarding the Jewish situation in Poland said: "The anti-Jewish disturbances assume an increasingly grave character. Outbreaks in which many Jews were injured and Jewish property damaged are reported in the Towns of Posen, Lemnus, Cracow and others. Student attacks upon Jews were renamed in Warsaw. The number of Jewish victims of the anti-semetic attack in Vilna exceeds calculation—Jew hating in many provinces continues".

Now, while we know that conditions were bad for Jews in Poland—we did not realize the extent of the increasing wave of anti-Semitism as depicted by Dr. Wise.

Jews everywhere pity Poland—pity that the Poles as yet have made little progress in civilized nationhood. The Polish wave of anti-Semitism speaks of pure barbarism and uncivilized practices.

As Expected

A week ago when Jewish Federation entered upon its campaign for $320,000—I expected it to reach its objective. To-day that expectation has become a reality. Despite that Jewish Federation followed the drives of Financial and the Catholic Charities, despite that many of our wealthy Jews have suffered a come-down—the Jewish community did not fail to respond to the call of the needy and the poor. All this is due in no small measure to the fine organization and the hard work manifested during the entire campaign. Our hearty congratulations to all those who gave of their substance and of themselves in the splendid work of Jewish philanthropy. Mazal Tov!

Let Us Employ Our Technical School Men

THE Technical Schools of the Province of Quebec, in the mind of their founder, the late Sir Lomer Gouin, were to supply to the business and industrial corporations of the Province, men of ability and knowledge. The legitimate goal of Sir Lomer Gouin has been achieved and today skilled labour, experts in all trades possessing a competency confirmed by official diplomas from our Technical Schools, are available for positions of trust in the industrial and commercial fields.

I believe it is the duty of the employers of the Province of Quebec to acknowledge the ability of those men by giving them preference in all spheres, as this shall not only constitute a recognition of the work that has been done by the Government, but also a move towards co-operation, a move which is today more than ever, an essential element to the welfare of our Province.

Foremen, engineers, department heads, managers, shop superintendents, accountants, etc., are to be found today amongst our own people. We cannot too much impress upon all concerned all that would benefit to the Province and to Canada at large, by a complete understanding of this situation.

Corporation directors, managers, and in a general way, employers of all categories, should fully realize that by entrusting to our school graduates part of their responsibility they are promoting the success of their enterprises. By so doing, they are certain to have not only men of recognized competency but also men having the same mentality as that of those under their supervision.

It is sometimes difficult to fully grasp the consequences of certain attitudes in the choice of men but I am confident that in advocating due encouragement to our Technical School men we are not only living up to the spirit of co-operation and good-will sponsored by our forefathers, but we are also contributing to what is today the aim of all public-spirited Canadians, that is a better understanding between all groups for what has to become a greater and more prosperous Canada.

Let Us Employ Our Technical School Men!!!

ATHANASE DAVID,
Provincial Secretary.

QUICKLY
– is the way Gyproc is applied

ESPECIALLY in new constructions or repair or improvement jobs. That is one reason why Gyproc Wallboard has done and does have first Fireproof with builders in Canada.

Gyproc is a wallboard made from gypsum rock in sheets 4 or 10 feet long, 2 feet wide and ⅜ of an inch thick. It is easy to handle, nails and cuts like lumber with a minimum of waste. It is used wherever interior walls, ceilings and partitions of fire-resistant material are desired.

Gyproc is inexpensive, has structural strength, insulation value, sound deadening and acoustic, and is an excellent base for Aluminette. Gyproc is other decorative mediums although its warm, ivory tone adds novel unique effect generally.

To seal the joints between the ivory coloured sheets of Gyproc, use Gyproc Joint Filler.

Fireproof Frame Construction

NO wood and frame construction or part of it is fireproof unless covered with the proper kind of protective material. Gyproc Wallboard is ideal for fireproofing wood frame construction. Nails or screws hold it firmly to studding. Gyproc can be applied either over or across studding – made impregnable to fire-menace in the home.

Beware of Substitution!

GYPROC is the Canadian pioneer for this and any construction of wallboard or lining with walls and ceilings. Every sheet of Gyproc has our name and trade mark on the back. Unless you are sold or accepted a sheet that has other Gyproc Wallboard for your requirements, be certain that you get Gyproc. Substitutes are followed by poor results. Insist on Gyproc – it has no equal when it comes to protection and other uses.

Here are some Uses:

GYPROC can save many times its cost over any usable gypsum board. For remodelling homes or for use in additions and repairing of concrete partitions or basements or ceilings, Gyproc is the most economical of all.

A Safe that Insures

Taylor Safes have survived unnumbered fires without loss. Many times they have been buried in fallen masonry and subjected to enormous weight as well as enormous heat. They have always come through with contents undamaged. J. & J. Taylor Safes today include the improvements suggested by three-quarters of a century of experience.

Consult us whether for safes or steel cabinets, steel cupboards for farmers, steel doors or steel shelvings.

Marriages

Ram-Brazer

The marriage of Toba, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Brazer, to Max Ram, son of Mrs. Ram and the late J. Ram, took place Sunday, November 15, at 4 p.m. at Adath Jeshurin Synagogue with Rev. M. Abramowitz officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was gowned in ivory satin with long tight sleeves, the skirt falling into a train at the back. Her veil of net was held in place by a cluster of orange blossoms and she carried a sheaf of Calla lilies. She was attended by her sister, Miss Jean Brazer, as maid of honor. She wore an eggshell satin gown and gloves, a green Adrian velour hat and shoes to match and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Ida Wolman in eggshell satin and green shoes; Miss Betty Cohen in green net with shoes to match; Miss Florence Wener, in eggshell satin and green shoes; and Miss Gertrude Spector in green satin and shoes to match. Their bouquets were of Talisman roses. Sam Bernstein was best man and the groomsmen were Saul Solomon, Sam Caplan, George Kirschberg and Hy Cawet. Max Seligner was usher. During the ceremony R. Davis and his orchestra played the Lohengrin Wedding March and Cantor M. Mercer sang Mendelssohn's Wedding March. Mrs. Brazer, mother of the bride, wore black chiffon with a corsage of red roses and Mrs. Ram, the bridegroom's mother, wore a black chiffon and lace with a corsage of red roses. The groom was attended by Mr. and Mrs. S. Leopold, the latter wearing a gown of white crepe with a corsage of roses and rose shoes. The dinner and reception was held at Chevra Kadisha Assembly. Both synagogues were decorated with palms, ferns and mums. The bride's gift to the maid of honor was an eggshell beaded evening bag and the gifts to the bridesmaids were crystal pendants on sterling silver chains. The groom's gift to the best man was a silver cigarette case and the gifts to the groomsmen and usher were sets of studs and cuff links. Mr. and Mrs. Max Ram are spending their honeymoon in New York, Atlantic City, and Philadelphia, and will live at 6710 Decarie Boulevard.

SOMEWHERE in Montreal
THERE is a man
WHO has never been able to find
SHIRTS that really satisfy him.

THEY either strangle him
OR creep up his back
OR run up his arms
OR fit him like a straight jacket.
OR else they don't fit at all
BUT just hang around his neck
KIND of careless.

THEN there's the pattern.
HE has only seen the gaudy ones
THAT look like a Turner sunset
OR the stripes on a tiger,
AND the plain kind
THAT show no colors at all.

NO wonder he says ..
WELL never mind what he says
THE Review wouldn't print it
ANYWAY.

NOW
WE want to see that man
WE want to show him shirts that will please
SHIRTS that are smart, well cut, and roomy
SHIRTS that carry real distinction
SHIRTS that are just what he needs
AND at a price that'll make him
SMILE again.

IF you know him
PLEASE direct him to
THE undersigned.

THANKS!

THE SECRET OF ISRAEL

(A Sketch of Hebrew History)

By Louis Wallis

(This is the first of four articles based on addresses by Louis Wallis, given to students of Columbia University, New York, through the appreciation of Rabbi Baruch Rosenbloom, Counselor to Jewish students there. Mr. Wallis first gave this matter in a course at Ohio State University. His book entitled "Sociological Study of the Bible" is published by the University of Chicago. His Biblical History is "The Wars of Babylon. A Story of Ancient Israel" is published by the Macmillan Company, New York.)

There is an unjust blockade against the scientific study of Hebrew history in our modern system of education. While students in high school and college are given every facility for learning what scientific scholarship has accomplished in the elucidation of certain history, such as that of Greece, Rome, France, Germany, England, America, no equivalent avenues of knowledge lead into an understanding of Israel.

Consequently, about sixteen million persons of a given descent are living in the civilized world today, whose cultural traditions, viewed from the scientific standpoint, are beclouded in darkness. The Jew, as such, is not only unidentifiable to the gentile world, but he is, to a large extent, shut away from his own historic origins.

This article is the first of a brief series describing ancient Israel on the same principles that are employed by scientific historians in the interpretation of Greece and Rome.

Origin of Hebrew Nation

According to the Biblical book of Josephus, or "Judges", certain wandering clans from the Arabian desert, calling themselves "Israelites", entered the land of Canaan and settled in the hill country; while the ancient walled cities remained in possession of older inhabitants known as "Amorites". We read in Josephus (chapter three), "The first Israel dwelt among the Canaanites, and they took their daughters to be their wives, and gave their own daughters to their sons". And likewise, in the book of Jeremiah, or "Genesis," we read how the older inhabitants talked about the sons of Jacob, saying, "These men are peaceable with us. Therefore let them dwell in the land, and trade therein. For behold, the land is large enough for them. Let us take their daughters to us for wives, and let us give them our daughters." Accordingly, the older inhabitants came to the men of Israel, and said, "Make ye marriages with us. Give your daughters unto us, and take our daughters unto you. And ye shall dwell with us; and the land shall be before you. Dwell and trade ye therein, and get you possessions therein" (chap. Thirty-four).

These passages, and many others in various parts of the Bible, show that in ancient Palestine a new people came into existence through a process of development which fused Israelites and Amorites into the Hebrew nation.

The Amorites of Canaan had lived there for centuries on the trade routes of the Orient. Their social system was aristocratic, being founded upon human slavery and monopoly of the soil in the hands of the few. The Amorite aristocrat was known by the ancient Semitic term "baal", a word indicating the upper social class which owns and exploits the lower class in society. This term was also applied to the gods of the Amorites, which were known collectively as "the Baalim". The worship of these gods went along with, and symbolized, the aristocratic legal usages, or "mishpat", of Amorite society, such as the selling or mortgaging of land, slaves, cattle, etc.

On the other hand, the original clans of the Beni Israel were organized upon a different principle. Like all nomadic social groups, the hereditary elite clan of the wilderness was a democratic brotherhood in which the members enjoyed equal rights. All the natural resources where the clan wandered were treated as common property. And this form of social usage, or "mishpat", was represented by such deities of the desert as Yahweh, who was worshiped by the Kenite tribe of Mount Sinai in the Arabian wilderness. We read in the first book of Samuel (chapter fifteen) that these Kenite people showed great kindness, or "chesed", to the Beni Israel, who adopted the worship of Yahweh at Sinai.

Thus we are prepared to see that when the new Hebrew state developed in Palestine at the point of assimilation between Israelites and Amorites, two violently contrasted social usages were brought into close contact—the aristocratic mishpat symbolized by the name "Baal", and the democratic mishpat symbolized by the name "Yahweh". These pieces fused and vanished in the Hebrew melting-pot, but their antinomistic points of view remained as distinctions attaching to social classes within the new nation.

The difference of social ideas, however, caused no trouble at first. But later on the property of the country people fell into the hands of a wealthy class in the cities, who enslaved the bulk of the nation, and then the fundamental driving-forces of Hebrew history came to the surface.

Two schools of prophets, or nebiim, arose. One school championed the Amorite Baalim as gods whose worship justified the exploitation of the poor; and these reactionary prophets applied the name "Baal" to Yahweh, as a deity whose worship guaranteed the aristocratic system of property-and-power.

But the opposite school of prophets crusaded against the Baalim, and fiercely denounced the application of the term Baal to Yahweh, who, they claimed, was primarily a god of the "poor and needy".

Thus we see that the struggle which convulsed the ancient Hebrew state

Marriages

Hutner-Moress

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Hutner, Kitchener, Ont., announce the marriage of their son, Dr. Laurence M. Hutner, to Miss Alice Moress, of Rochester, N. Y., on November 26th.

Levetus-Caplan

The wedding took place November 26th at the home of Dr. and Mrs. M. Kates, 18 Fuller Avenue, of Dr. Kates' only remaining daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Caplan, of Kenora, Ont., and Hubert L. Levetus, only son of Mrs. L. B. Levetus and the late Dr. Levetus, of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Maurice N. Eisendrath of Holy Blossom Synagogue. The wedding music was played by the sister of the bride, Rhoda Kates, who was dressed in pale pink chiffon. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white crepe with Alencon of seed pearls and rhinestones and had a full-length white veil a minute. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. M. Kates, as matron of honor, the latter wearing a gown of champagne satin with matching velvet jacket and slippers. The groom was attended by Leo Frankel. The bride's mother was in a black georgette and lace gown with corsage of orchids. Mrs. Levetus wore Chantilly lace over white satin. Mr. and Mrs. Levetus left on a motor trip to Washington, New York and Atlantic City, the bride travelling in a suit of old rose velours kasha with silver fox collar and small rose hat. The bride and groom will spend two weeks in Toronto with the groom's mother prior to their departure for Montreal where they will make their home.

Cherney-Alexander

The marriage of Miss Huldah Alexander, daughter of A. J. Alexander, to Melvin Cherney, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Cherney was solemnized Sunday, December 2 at 4.30 p.m. in the chapel of Pinto Beth-midrash Synagogue. Rev. Dr. H. Abramowitz and Rev. Charles Isaacs officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attended by her cousins, Miss Sylvia Dallen, of Toronto as maid of honour, and Ruth Jaffee Kerl, as flower girl. George Brewer played the customary organ music. The bride's gown of silver tissue was made on simple lines and the same with embroidered lace a train with full clusters of orange blossoms on the back of the slip. Her bouquet was of Calla lilies. Miss Dallen, the maid of honour, wore a gown of periwinkle blue net and satin with velvet hat and shoes to match. Lace, cinch cloth color picots and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. The flower girl wore an old fashioned long dress of pastel taffeta with hat and shoes to match, flesh color mittens, and a nosegay of Talisman roses. John B. Cherney, the groom's brother, was best man. Mrs. H. Cherney, mother of the groom, wore black velvet with a shoulder bouquet of American Beauty roses. The wedding trip will be spent in Jamaica and Havana and on their return Mr. and Mrs. Cherney will live at 1394 Davie. 1103 Place, Notre Dame de Grace. Going away the bride wore a brown cloth dress with a close fitting hat to match, beaver cloth fur coat, three-quarter length sport model, and influenza shoes and hose.

Stein-Baldovich

The marriage of Rae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Baldovich, to Isaac Silverwood Mr. and Mrs. M. Stein took place Sunday, November 24 at 5.30 p.m. at Rabbi Julius Berger's studio. Adath Jeshurun Congregation of Ottawa, Ontario

Among the names of founders of Adath Jeshurun Congregation of Ottawa established almost forty years ago, are those of A. Harris (now of Montreal), John Dover and Moses Bilsky. Mr. Bilsky, one of the prime organizers of the congregation, had settled in Ottawa in 1857. Through the further efforts of Mr. Dover, the small gathering which used to meet for services in a private residence, was now prepared to construct a synagogue building. The first place of worship of this congregation was on Murray Street, but in 1904 a synagogue was built on King Edward Avenue, and this was enlarged to double its capacity in 1922. Almost at the very time of the founding a burial ground was secured. Among the early presidents were A. Harris and I. Slonemsky and early settlers who were active during the rapid growth of the congregation include A. Sugarman, C. Caplan, Reverend J. Mirsky and A. J. Freiman.

In 1910 a building to the rear of the Synagogue known as the King Edward Hebrew Institute was built, and has formed the activities of communal and congregational Jewish interest; literary, social, religious, Talmud Torah (before it came to its present location on George Street) and Sunday School.

Mr. Freiman celebrated in 1930 the conclusion of 25 years of service as president of the Congregation. At that occasion the membership presented him with a bronze tablet set upon the walls of the Synagogue in token of esteem. Mr. Caplan, who with the able assistance of Lazar Greenberg (vice-president, Benjamin Pearl, secretary since 1917) and W. Shenkman (treasurer) are promoting the growth of the Congregation. Rabbis who held position here were: Samuel Fyne (1913-1920), Max J. Minis (1924-25) George Tatlis (1927-28) and Nathan Kollin, Rabbi Kollin has been leader since September, 1929, shortly after his graduation from the Jewish Theological Seminary. Cantors are Reverend Joseph Minsky and Reverend Joseph Rabin. M. Billesberg conducts classes in Mishna and Gemorrah.

Adath Jeshurun Congregation assists the Talmud Torah and maintains a Sunday school. Sisterhood past presidents is Mrs. A. Slone, Mrs. J. Bendit is now president. Young People's League includes study classes, lectures, debates, etc. It has recently been extended to include the young people of the other synagogues of the city. Under these auspices, weekly courses in religion, history, and Hebrew are given by the rabbis. Officers of the League: Dr. Samuel Minsky, who is also chairman of the Talmud Torah Board; (president) Doris Cohen, Vice-President; Willam Braverman, Treasurer; Misses Reva Baker and Miriam Pearl, Secretaries; Misses Baker, Sara Abelson, Gladys Freiman and Clara Held, teachers in the Sunday school.

was, in reality, based upon the problem of social justice. The way to reason the two schools of religion, however, did not relate to a conflict during the epoch of the Hebrew state. The reactionary Israelitic prophets almost obtained the pinnacle of success. But their opponents, driven to desperation, predicted that unless idolatry, with its unfortunate exploitation, were put down, and the worship of one deity, Yahweh, were made legal as a quantum of social justice, the spiritual unity of Israel would be destroyed. And when the walls of Jerusalem were at length actually crushed into ruin by the battering ram of Nebuchadnezzar, the conservative prophets conquered victorious under the leadership of Jeremiah and Ezekiel.

JEWISH LITERARY SOCIETY TO SPONSOR LECTURE

Henry Hurwitz, of New York, editor of the Menorah Journal, will lecture in Montreal Sunday, December 10, 8 p.m., at the Mount Royal Hotel under the auspices of the Jewish Literary and Historical Society of Canada, on "The Future of Judaism in North America." This event was postponed from November 22 to the above date. The Menorah Society, a cultural Jewish University association, was founded by Mr. Hurwitz twenty years ago. He will speak in Ottawa under the auspices of the Ottawa Jewish Literary and Historical Society on December 21.

Val Cartier Apartments

Where dignified architecture, commodious suites, modern appointments make Ideal homes in central location

THE new and most distinctive apartment house in Ottawa, the Val Cartier, is now completed and ready for occupancy. Situated on Rideau Street, on the corner of Chapel, it is within easy walking distance of the business centre, and yet is in a quiet, refined neighborhood. The building is of fireproof construction throughout, and is of pressed brick and stone trimmings, with a red tile roof. The entrance is on Rideau Street, and is through a handsome vestibule, with tiled floor and wainscoting, and a large, bright reception hall, with hardwood floor and panelled walls. The main staircase is of marble, with ornamental iron balustrade, and the corridors are finished in hardwood, with tiled floors. The suites are all self-contained, and are provided with every modern convenience. The kitchens are fitted with white enamelled cupboards, and have tiled floors and splashbacks. The bathrooms are also tiled, and have white enamelled fixtures. The suites are heated by hot water radiators, and are provided with electric lights and gas ranges. The building is equipped with a modern electric passenger elevator, and has a large, well-lighted basement, in which are located the janitor's quarters, and storage lockers for the tenants. The building is owned by Messrs. Cartier & Cartier, and was designed by Mr. S. Miller, and erected by Messrs. Cartier & Cartier.

HAYLEY'S CINDER BLOCKS FOR THESE BEAUTIFUL APARTMENTS

By

HARRY HAYLEY

HURDMAN ROAD, OTTAWA PHONE R. 1881

Manufacturers of Cinder Blocks, Artificial Stone and Laundry Tubs.

The Hayley Cinder Block has been used by the Steinkman Apartments and for many other buildings. It has proved itself to this contractor that it is an accepted building unit, having all the features of solid wall construction, at a distinct saving in cost.

Use of the Hayley Cinder Blocks means quicker construction with a corresponding economy in labor. It is fireproof and the numerous small pores literally seal the dead air, providing adequate insulation against heat or cold.

Hayley Cinder Blocks are being used in many of the buildings now under construction in Ottawa. Let us give you a list of them.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The advantages of draw curtains are available with all KirschKraft Built-to-Measure Drapery Hardware—on KirschKraft Better Wood Poles—on KirschKraft Cornices and Cornice Pole Sets—and on KirschKraft Ataxie Work. With the latter draw curtains may be hung on the same rod with the Ataxie Work.

In KirschKraft Perfected Traverse Equipment, the "luxury" of draw cords has been made inexpensive. Within the reach of any home, and practicable for any type of window in any room. Anyone who has had draw curtains properly assembled and hung will never go back to the old way. As to the slight saving of doing without draw curtains when economy is necessary, it is really preferable to use a less expensive drapery material and effect the saving in this way. Long after the curtains and draperies are worn out this drapery hardware will be just as good as the day it was put up.

The convenience, the attractiveness and the efficiency of draw curtains when hung on KirschKraft Perfected Traverse Equipment are indicated in many of the window draping suggestions shown in their book.

There are styles for every need. Gilbert H. Martel is representing The Kirsch Manufacturing Co. with a complete line of curtain rods and drapery hardware in his office at 1121 Dominion Street East. For further information telephone Ch. 9614.

D'EVER ARRIVE AT THE OFFICE SOME MORNING AND HAVE THE BOSS TELL YOU THAT YOUR SALARY WILL BE CUT 10%?—
AND WHEN YOU GET HOME YOU SET DOWN IN THE DUMPS AS YOU TELL THE WIFE THE NEWS,— ISN'T CUT, JUST AS I SOUGHT THAT NEW CAR AND PUT IN A NEW FURNACE. GOSH!
AND WHILE YOU ARE BEMOANING YOUR LUCK THE WIFE SLIPS OUT TO THE KITCHEN,—
WELL, YOU STILL HAVE YOUR GOOD OLD BLACK HORSE, DEAR. WE SHOULD WORRY AND RETURNS WITH A BOTTLE OF COOL REFRESHING BLACK HORSE.— MAN! D'EVER KNOW A COUPLE OF BETTER PALS?

just say— "Dawes Black Horse ale, please"

NEW IMPORTED CROCHET DESIGNS

It is well recognized that the most attractive and usable crochet designs come from Europe. Those that are presented here have been selected from several hundred original designs brought from France and Germany. Only those that are practical and easy to make have been reproduced here.

In working out any one of the designs, choose thread of a size and texture right for the purpose—the finest sizes for handkerchiefs, lingerie trimmings, and infants' clothes; and coarser sizes for luncheon sets and bathroom and bed linens. Colors may be used to bring out a desired color effect.

Crochet as an Art. Modern teachers maintain that crochet is a wonderful craft to teach children, as it unites the work of their fingers and encourages a rhythmic accuracy. Young women who are creating treasures for their hope chests or who are making exquisite linens for their homes, find in crochet a perfect medium for finishing edges and for attractive and practical decorations.

Older women find delight in crochet, in making treasured gifts for their loved ones, and in replenishing linen chests. There is a fascination about crochet that is in itself intriguing. Once you crochet slowly, the crochet hook will prove a lure to you. When you know the joy of crochet and have the satisfaction of creating something beautiful and useful, the situation is indeed a happy one.

Needlework done with a purpose is decidedly smart today. Crochet trimming becomes more and more popular. Collar and cuff edges are finished with delicate crochet stitches. The finest luncheon sets available today in the exclusive shops have crocheted edgings. Many towels are decorated with edgings of white and colored crochet. The vogue for colored sheets and pillow-cases gives rise only to the revived fashion for decorative pillow-cases, which have both crocheted edgings and monograms.

Net glass curtains have their corner and bottom edges finished with a crocheted edging. Narrow edgings, such as are shown here, made in silk or linen, prove particularly fine for smart lingerie touches on beautiful afternoon dresses and are equally lovely for delicately fine baby dresses.

Remember that you need a crochet thread of a size, texture, luster, and color or shaded color right for the purpose. You must also be sure that the thread is of a quality to wear so that it will not break and make your work valueless. The color must be brilliant so that innumerable washings will not fade it. The thread must be of a texture and luster to harmonize perfectly with the texture and sheen of the fabric that you propose to decorate. These principles of good work are found in J. P. Coats Mercer-Crochet.

Palestine Goes to the Theatre

By Jean Jaffe

I was sitting in the midsummer cool of a late June evening in Tel-Aviv, the new metropolitan centre of Palestine. I was hoping that those friends who were looking after me would propose a drive through the waving Judaean Hills, fountains of cold beverages, or to do nothing.

But they brought me "Him on the side" and for a premiere too. "The Devil's Disciple" by G. B. Shaw. Yes, G. B. S. in Hebrew and in the open!

When I got to the modernistic structure, the Opera House, where the performance was to take place, I found hundreds of men and women carrying around the boxes trying to gain admission. And I, as a plaster!

A plaster is five cents! It gets a sum of money to most Palestinians, often a day's earnings. But they demand some amount to part with it, from those who borrow standing room, even they were being turned away.

It might have been one of those exhilarating Indian summer evenings in New York, when the opera with a renewed zest for Broadway after a Summer of the theatre elsewhere, fall in line for the first offerings of the season.

In the first Jewish city in the world the men and women come in bleached and unbleached linen suits and sheik-sukkarians, and before hearing impressionable junior objects with which to fan themselves. In many instances these objects were the text of the play in Hebrew, in Russian English, German and Yiddish. The Jewish settlement of Palestine about 150,000 people in all with one-third in this new city is made up largely of immigrants speaking the three languages. The English — and in the first place English is one of the three official languages of Palestine — the two others being Hebrew and Arabic, and then there are about 15,000 English-speaking people residing there.

Since the only functioning theatrical groups in Palestine are Jewish and Hebrew in substance, the three of them play in Hebrew, the same therefore go to the Hebrew theatre or not go at all. For all the dramatic presentations overseas and overseas are presented in English which does make it easier. But it is one of the universal aims and ideals of the Jewish nation to nurture the individual elements of the Jews by means of one language — Hebrew of course — and the theatre is one of the most effective nurturing processes.

Before Hanukah, as Mr. Shaw's melodrama of Colonial New England is known in Hebrew, may be translated as "The Devil's Eldest." From various remarks that reached me before the curtain went up, I realized that I was in the midst of knowing and thinking people — not a Russian gentleman with trimmed beard and sharp nose who quoted Shaw's own opinion of this play as set forth in the preface to the series "Plays for Puritans", near an American lady whose mother had seen Richard Mansfield as Dick Dudgeon in New York many years ago, and near two English gentlemen who discussed the Dickens revels in the prim and frigid Vermont setting. The others, curious and eager, were reading and thinking quite audibly and, since themselves and their neighbors ready for the intellectual treat, a bit of Shaw.

With none of this enlightened background I could only fall back on my reminiscences of the performance of The Devil's Disciple" with Basil Sydney given some years ago by the Theatre Guild at the Garrick Theatre. But my neighbors displayed such great enthusiasm and ardor for the curtain to rise that I too began regarding the event as extraordinary and above all most welcome.

Palestine is far away, here on the rim of the Asiatic desert, where the arbiters of the arts fear to tread. Yet its people are of the kind that were nurtured on the culture and cultural fare of London, Berlin, Paris, Vienna, New York, Old Warsaw and our own New York. Here in the Holy Land, where they are engaged in the business of building the country, of training muscles of supreme strength into channels of breathing new life into the ancient organs here they need such sustenance more, not less, and only when they create it for themselves.

Three permanent theatrical groups have come to life in the past five years. Notable among these is the Habimah, which had its inception in Moscow, received Moscow and after many peregrinations through the regions of the Old and New World found a home on the enlightened soil of new Palestine. This soil was also responsible for the birth and development of the Workers' Theatre, the label (the Yiddish) which was scrutinized by the Hamaabida (the Jewish Labor Organization) and the Matateh (the Hebrew) a national theatre which was put in launched by a newspaper of Jewish Organization. The first and foremost among the Habimah is still considered to be Shakespeare of New York, except perhaps for the unique presented in Broadway in Hebrew that sustained superb folk appeal when Yiddish, the dialect (dialect) of deep Hebrew, Jewish's Dreams and other plays.

But all the impressive and emotional ranged from the Habimahites

Jewish Artist Returns to This Country

Alexander Warshawsky is exhibiting his paintings in the West. His show opened at the New Stendahl Galleries, Los Angeles, and will continue throughout November. Mr. Warshawsky is an American Jew who divides his time between Northern France and this country, instructing painstaking scenes and people in both lands.

Mr. Warshawsky "graduated" from extreme conservatism to extreme modernism and is now on the happy highway between the two lines. His work gives the happy conviction that he has found himself completely.

Alexander Warshawsky was born in Cleveland. Alexander and his brother Abel, became artists and won international honors. Alexander had to give up school at the age of 11 to go to work. His teacher had persuaded a trip to the galleries in the near future, one correspondent tells us. He worked at more than 15 jobs in the next seven years, one of which was teaching in a grammar school at night. He had managed to work in a few months at art school. One night he was showing someone how to do a back flip in the air off the end of a spring board. The other reached out and hoarded him in tubular. Alex crashed to the floor on the back of his neck. It was a month before he recovered from full paralysis at a hospital. When he went back to the gymnasium, another bad life fell, but his confidence gave him a month's pay to make up for it. "That fall was the best break I ever had," says Mr. Warshawsky. "I took the money and went to New York to study art." There he entered Columbia University students to boxing for $6 a week, and earned his way through the art courses he took on the side at the National Academy of Design.

He followed his brother Abel to Paris, and started to study in the Latin quarter. Then war broke out. Alex joined the French army as physical instructor; Abel as decorator of the huts along the line in a sense outfit. So they divided the jobs. The two of them taught a Poilus in wrestle and box and were nice in the evenings. Afternoons, two of them, armed with paint and brushes, attended the interiors of dugouts and huts and splashed behind enemy lines and there. "Paris is now the war more gay," they explained.

Back in Paris after the war the settled down to painting again. Alexander went to work over canvases with a palette knife, putting daubs of thick color on to the canvas in the impressionistic. He had discovered his first fifty for modern and came back to a more conventional manner.

Mr. Warshawsky is the first exponent of the pictorial painter's studio at the New Stendahl Galleries, and is already at work on several local portrait commissions. He may transfer his activities permanently to California, with his wife Stella, who is a well-known illustrator and designer of children's clothes. Incidentally, Mr. and Mrs. Warshawsky arrived in Los Angeles a few weeks ago so that their first child, a son called Ivan Jacques, might call California his birthplace.

BRAHM SAND MUSICAL CLUB

Brahm Sand Musical Club met Sunday, November 27, at the home of Miss Sally Hornstein, 1077 Hutchison Street. Miss Zajdely, superintendent of kindergartens, and A. Sand were guests. The meeting was an impromptu concert and readings. Misses Lisbe Lorins, Ruth Pinsonlan, Dorothy and Sybil Aronovitch and Sally Hornstein played and Misses Goldie Katz, Dorothy Jacobs and Dorothy Orenovitz read.

JEWISH AUTHOR RETURNS TO GERMANY

Her husband, Richard ... is the director of the State Op... in Berlin, and he may take a hi... commanding. But he came over to ... for a while ago and it appeared ... any one who had once visited Hollywood would always wish to re...turn.

That brought her to thoughts of the capital of the cinema, and so she came to the proposed novel. Her method of writing is apparently one which starts with the scene, for she thought of the film first, and then the plot. It is to be called "Falling Star," and it will concern itself with Hollywood. But it will not be the Hollywood of the Knickbocks and Van Vechtens, for Vicki Baum does not see the inhabitants in that light. They are not "silly," but try hard to do their best work; they are a little "small."

While she was in the West she helped out on two pictures; one at them the filming of her play, and the other which probably will be called "The Big Sale." This deals more or less definitely with life and love in a department store. "Grand Hotel" may be a movie, too, some day. Vicki Baum is not a realist; the primrose on the cliff's brim is more than a primrose to her. Its scene may be of the movies, but the characters will not be real ones.

In the course of a brief conversation she remarked that she liked the way Americans talk and set the play they are brought up and educated, and the way they serve meals. She also liked the view of Central Park through the fog. She regretted only that she had to go away. She wondered whether the fog would lie long enough for the Baums to look at that she could get on. She wondered, also, why parking trucks was such a "problem," and whether some one could not do something about it.

When she arrived in America she remarked that her only two English words were "small" and "inner." She has found others since then, of course, but this is her collection.

If it could be her home, and have to go to go away.

ance rehearsal. Few who came to see them understood the historic fervor dictated their silhouette since toward the reminiscence of an ancient tongue and culture. But to Palestine they are listened to in Hebrew and applauded in Hebrew. Yes, there is a good practical spot in the renewed homeland which clears as cheering and invigorating as our own "Hurrah" or "Bravo." It is "Hadach" in the troubled Palestine they are critic-ised and encouraged in the language which they adopted way back in 1911 in snowbound Moscow.

During the three years in Palestine the Habimah has added to its repertoire another biblical allegory, "Reine David" ("David's Crown"), by Feldoussi. Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," and a tragedy based on the life of the Jewish martyr of the seventeenth century, "Uriel D'Acosta." Incidentally, those last two plays the Habimah presented in Berlin while on its recent Continental tour. There the troupe engaged the noted director of the Kamerny Theatre of Moscow, A. Dreamsky, to direct the productions.

The intriguing explains the Habimah harvest of prejudices. It is the annihilation of each of the three groups in art to the Continent every new and then in order to see what's in the theatrical receives and also to make some contact. And there the "spoiled" cosmopolites will go to the theatre only when it is worse in-deers than authentic. It is necessary to bring the Palestinian "purest" to them in the Autumn and Winter. If Europe is like a spoiled child, Palestine is like a fond mother to them. She wants them at all times and any time.

As for the extra money, the groups simply must have it. They all work on a co-operative basis. No salaried administrator, except in the case of the Ohel Theatre, of which I will speak presently. There are no playhouses as yet in Palestine, so that for each and every performance a "house" must be rented. Electricity is still a young enterprise and therefore unofficially expensive, about four times what we pay in New York. Materials and paraphernalia are to be procured only by importation and that involves a high revenue. The [illegible] in spite of capacity houses, is [illegible] small. The large [illegible] Tel-Aviv, Jerusalem and Haifa [illegible] a population of 185,000, and [illegible] 45,000 people are [illegible] throughout the agricultural [illegible] which are part of the illegible] to which No subsidy or [illegible] receives redeems itself without [illegible] of its bounty to the colonies. [illegible] are all conducted on a co-operative [illegible] and, accordingly, the [illegible] workers in circulation. Those colonists who are looked upon as the [illegible] of the new Palestine, are a most appreciative and ardent [illegible] race. The rustic surroundings of the colonies, however, create difficult circumstances for the players. Performances are given in the [illegible] dining halls, sometimes even in the open. In the latter case a platform is placed against the side of a hill and the actors make their appearance from behind dense groves and olive branches.

But to get back to the Habimah. A few peculiar affairs. "The Dybbuk" I saw the members of another English play in Jerusalem. It was Rosamund Meighan's "The Sacred Flame."

If Miss's play of provincial Colonial Vermont suffered a bit in translation and by the outbreaks of infantile temperament and [illegible] Meighan's play of post-war England was absolutely unbeguiled. That highly seasoned style of G. B. S. and those savory British understatements take place between Cornwall Surgeons and lack of the scaffold were a bit

...and dramatic. But in "The ... Pietist" where men and ... battered by the storms of ... living vital emotions, not a ... was lost in the Habimah version. ... play went over like a good ... smoothly and easily.

... same complete satisfaction was ... the performance of Ben Jon... satire on human foibles, that ... little comedy "Volpone," ... inaugurated the season of the ... Theatre—the Ohel. This ... headed by a former pupil of ... sinovsky, Moshe Halevi, was ... two years ago by a nucleus ... thirty theatrically minded ... men and women. It receives ... small subsidy from the Palestine ... Organization, which controls ... working quarters and a free ... them. The organized workers may ... card for maintenance 8 shilling ... forty-five cents) per month, which ... them to all performances at ... and less than half of the regular ... admission fee.

Although very similar in its mod... dramatic trend to the Habimah group, ... Ohel is primarily interested in ... creating a Palestinian theatre in the ... full sense of the word. Its repertory ... indicates a tendency toward the ... radical, which is the past history of ... the Jews in Palestine, and toward ... modern socialism, which is the pres... ... prevalent status among the ... workers. In the first category are ... biblical subjects such as Stefan ... Zweig's "Jeremiah," a modern ... dramatization of the episode of ... Esther, Queen of Persia," and a ... similar version of the romance of ... Jacob and Rachel." Of the plays ... dealing with modern social problems ... the Ohel has already produced Her... ... Heijermans's play on Dutch ... labor life, "The Good Hope," which ... has an obvious socialistic objective; ... the Czechoslovak piece by the Capek ... brothers called in America "R. U. ... ?" and a blatant bit of radicalism ... known as "The Pot-boiler," by Upton ... Sinclair.

The Ohel performance of "Vol... pone" was not to be compared to ... presentation by our own Theatre ... Guild. But in Jerusalem it had verve ... and an abundance of spirit, which ... emanated from the Oriental sur... roundings and the Jewish temperament as close to the Latin. Here ... the ancient, serene capital of Pal... estine, a fond audience held its sides ... at the machinations of Volpone. It ... gave thunderous applause to his final ... defeat and to the bit of circus which ... was rewarded. In short it had a dis... ... crete and complete appeal.

I must not forget to relate here a little episode on the theatre's seating plan. I found that the seats were indicated numerically by little slips of paper torn from old calendars. It is obviously cheaper to buy calendars of past years than to engrave new numbers on old seats. Many of the tourists take off these slips and fondly tuck them into their purses ... another relic from the remote East.

If the Habimah is dubbed the theatre of the intelligentsia, the Ohel, the theatre of the proletariat, then the Matatel (the Broom) is the theatre of everybody. It has the largest attendance, as a rule, and the most mixed audiences. It was founded three years ago by J. M. Paniell, formerly of the State Theatre of Sophia, with the object of furthering the miniature stage art in Palestine. What the Matatel has really turned out to be, to the chagrin of many and to the delight of all, is a dramatic journal, an animated mirror reflecting the phenomena of the new life there. In adroit sketches, bristling ditties and incidence songs, the Matatel brings home the evils of the moment. It slays the demagogue. It pins cringe on the hero of the day. It cuts amuck with all that blesses and burns.

No wonder the government censor keeps an eye on the "scrapings" of the Matatel. Each "bill" must pass the censor before presentation and every now and then performances are suspended. Not long ago the Matatel stood still in its career for three months, because the Colonial office was awaited. Another time it was closed because it reflected on the honor of somebody's lady. And the Matatel is always shooting off the Arabs and their politics.

A precarious lot, these Jewish artists. They neither spare nor pity. They never think twice before acting. At the performances I witnessed many a jolt was handed to Leah Pasmfield and to the rising boardwalk among others.

And a good time was had by all. — New York Times.

Anti-Semitic Riots Turn To A Boycott

The price of Warsaw University anti-other students instigations appeared Nov. 21, after a fortnight's suspension on account of anti-Semitic riots.

The reign found an appeal to the common sense and patriotic feeling of the students, and said he expected there would be repetition of the recent disturbances. The first day of the resumption of work passed quiet. It need it now be supposed that the Nationalist students will abstain from open hostility to Jews or anti-Semitic incitation in the line of the academic race.

There have been no new reports of anti-Semitic riots in other Polish cities. The senseless demolition of gravestones in the Jewish part of the cemetery was the last reported disturbance, but it would be idle to pretend that the movement which took such large dimensions had completely died out.

The hostility of Jews and the demanding of their property only commences the Nationalist leaders condemn that form of attack—but there is upon adversity of an economic boycott and a social and intellectual ban against the Jews.

The "League of the Green Ribbon" has undertaken this job. Even school-boys and girls ostentatiously wear a green ribbon, the Polish emblem.

Many Jews are involved in the anti-Semitic campaign. The Nationalist Democrats, who signed it and participated it, are now in opposition to the Pilsudski regime and use the attacks on the Jews as a very effective weapon against the government.

They have already succeeded in greatly embarrassing the government, which, of course, cannot tolerate the riots, but, on the other hand, risks much of its already damaged popularity if it sides with the Jews. Only a small minority of Poles is actively anti-Semitic, with the majority indifferent, but if it comes to an issue of the government against Polish students in defense of the Jews sympathy will be with the students.

Reports of the last time was thrown much light on the problem here. It seemed also tradition that Nationalist anti-Semitic students started at the beginning of every academic year over a of corpses in the Auditorium Maximum into Nationalistic protest against Jewish students operating on the lecture halls and defiling a majority of Jewish bodies. The stools have been supported by a few professors as Joseph Landsberg, widely known Polish Jewish leader, former and member of the Nationalist party.

The Jewish Parliamentary Association has urged the government to settle the unique situation by lending the request has been refused in view of the opposition by other churches in Poland.

This encouraged the Nationalists and they transferred their activities from the Chemistry room to the lecture halls of other faculties. The Rational Democrats saw a chance to damage the government, and anti-Jewish riots spread to all the universities either.

The Senate, the universities and the government hesitated. They feared the schools where it was too late and the students had already been carried outside the universities. The government justified its tendency by saying it could not interfere with the authority of the universities, but awakened when blood had already been shed in the streets and not only Jewish students but Jewish women and children had been beaten and maltreated.

On the seventh day of the rioting the Minister of the Interior, M. Pieracki, made a statement in the Sejm that he would combat the anti-Semitic movement energetically, but his promise was only partly fulfilled. Police authorities were seldom effective enough to prevent bloodshed and damage to property.

In Vilna it was the fault of an already dismissed Governor and Pol-

Visiting Speakers Say Judaism is Stronger Than Ever

Rabbi William Fineshriber of Temple Israel, New York, speak ing at Temple Emanu-El Friday night, declared: "It seemed like an illusion that despotic powers, evil rulers and the forces of unbridled lust, through violence, intrigue or the Devil's treachery could ever bring their hated persecutions to Jewish Judaism which, unbroken in the end, came to long course."

Rabbi Fineshriber said that the past eighty years had also witnessed "the rise of anti-Semitism in the United States, which, though not as violent as in other countries, was nevertheless a blot on the escutcheon of democracy."

Rabbi Fineshriber said that the Jew of today is no different from the Jew of centuries ago. "Today, as then, Jews are being made the scapegoats for their religious ideals and their contributions to civilization. Their enemies have attempted to make us abandon our faith by inflicting indignities upon us. But we have not done so. We have been loyal to our faith and to our people. We have not been ashamed of our religion. We have not been afraid to be known as Jews. We have not been afraid to be known as Jews. We have not been afraid to be known as Jews

Montreal Y. M. H. A.

Something of a Purim play was staged by the Y.M.H.A. Players in the Little Theatre of the Y.M.H.A. Monday, Monday Night, Purim Night, Tuesday Night, Wednesday Night and Thursday Night. Purim lasted a week.

The accomplishment of various events during Purim in Montreal was very exciting yet few persons were injured. Pandemonium in Phillips Square was intimidating and without the aiding services of Police Chief Campbell and Inspector Archambault, order would be out of chaos.

Lieutenant-Colonel Wilfrid Bovey, Honorary President of the Y.M.H.A., was elected Honorary President of the Canadian Jewish Congress at the annual meeting held in the Y.M.H.A. Auditorium on Sunday afternoon, December 4th, at 2.30 p.m. Dr. Samuel Bronfman, President of the Congress, presided.

Dr. Bronfman, in his address, said that Colonel Bovey's election was a fitting tribute to a man who had done so much for the Jewish community of Montreal and Canada. He had been a member of the Executive Committee of the Congress since its inception and had been Honorary President of the Montreal Council of Jewish Women since its formation. He was also a member of the Executive Committee of the Canadian Red Cross Society and a Governor of McGill University.

Dr. Bronfman also announced that Colonel Bovey had been appointed Honorary Counsel to the Congress.

Colonel Bovey, in his address, said that he was deeply touched by the honour conferred upon him. He was glad to be associated with the Congress in its efforts to combat anti-Semitism and to promote good will between Jews and non-Jews.

Dr. Bronfman also announced that Mr. Samuel Bronfman, Mr. Peter Bercovitch, Mr. Louis Rasminsky, Mr. Lazarus Phillips, Mr. Abraham Feinberg, Mr. Jacob Penn and Mr. Harry Cohen had been appointed Honorary Counsel to the Congress.

CANADIAN PACIFIC BROADCAST

Notable Trans-Canada Broadcast Brought Over Company's Hour

A striking example of the progress made in the transmission of trans-continental broadcasts has been given by the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs in the handling of the National Council of Education's programmes each Friday night from various cities in the Dominion of Canada, from 8.45 to 9.30 Eastern Standard Time, and also the transmission of the Canadian Pacific Railway's hour of cheerful and good music, from Toronto and other points between 10 and 11 P.M. Eastern Standard Time, both programmes being carried from coast to coast over the lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's Telegraphs.

The programme of the National Council of Education is picked up from a different city in the Dominion of Canada each Friday night for special direct circuit linking the station at the place of origin of the speech with the studio in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, and thence is distributed again by land lines to stations from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast, thus being carried over a distance of 3,000 miles or more in many cases before being put on the air. In each case the National Educational broadcast is completed the programme by the Radio Columbia organizations in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, or at other points in Canada to use on the same network for distribution the operation of switching from the one programme to the second programme being done by means of operating various switches in the control cabinet of the studio in Toronto.

Modern development has made it possible, not only to send out distribute broadcasts and switch from programme to programme, but to carry two separate programmes, either in the same or opposite directions, across the continent on the radio broadcast transmission system of the Canadian Pacific Railway's Telegraphs. This same system will be used on a number of occasions during the winter season, in connection with educational talks to be given from various Canadian cities.

ANNOUNCEMENT

During the past year the Western Division of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation has grown by leaps and bounds. New houses have been built, older houses remodelled or lost, like new ones, and even certain of prospective theatres added. Nearly every Western theatre has been renovated and installed with talking picture equipment. Mr. Emanuel Briffa, has done fine work in favouring the various theatres in the West. Mr. Briffa, is one man who does not work primarily for money, but set comes before everything else and the fact that the Western houses are today nicely decorated is good sign is due more to the painstaking ability of Mr. Briffa than anything else. He is a great artist, a gentleman and puts his work before everything else. Mr. Briffa is now working on the new Chateau Theatre in Montreal at the corner of St. Denis and Bellagio Streets, which is now reached at it Elmwood Ave., Montreal.

JEWISH WORK HERE CITED BY WEIZMANN

Dr Chaim Weizmann, Zionist leader in a lecture at Glasgow, November 21, before the Baron Rothschild of the Rothschild and Warburgs on the present state of Jewry and Zionism said the unhappy position of the Jews in Germany was really an illustration their position everywhere in the world.

He declared this was best illustrated in the two countries of opposite poles from one another the United States and Russia. Both countries he knew intimately. Dr. Weizmann said Russia as the land of his birth and the United States from repeated visits there. He asserted that in Russia Jewry was better governed today than twenty years ago.

The Russian people had not changed in substance under the Soviet nor has indeed, despite gigantic magical efforts for what had been called had become red without becoming the less red he called attention to the fact that whereas the the Union abolished the learning of all other languages in Russia, Jewish Hebrew alone was permitted.

In the United States under wholly different political and social conditions there the Jews with 2,000,000 of them in New York alone were also encountering steadily increasing difficulties, Dr Weizmann declared.

There he remarked that there could be only one method for the Jews, namely, Palestine, and he said that this found would be what they make it for the Jews must look to their own efforts.

The speaker pointed out that the Jews in Palestine now numbered 550,000, with room still for 50,000 immigrant families. As a example of the developmental possibilities, he cited the growth of the Jewish town Tel Aviv from 2,000 to 42,000 inhabitants in eleven years.

Dr. Weizmann contended that the difficulty with the Arabs could surely be conquered in a spirit of mutual consideration, in comparison with which it must be borne in mind that the Arabs certainly had rights in Palestine—which the Jews respect—but that Palestine was not their national home.

Palestine was the national home of the Jews, Dr. Weizmann concluded, and if developments there miscarried it would be a heavy reproach on the world's Jewry for having missed a great opportunity.

At eighteen he had married from the rabbis of the twelve tribes of Christendom. Wise Men and was widely known as instructed not merely in the law of the law, but in the mystic doctrines of the Kabala as well. Learned pious handsome, with a powerfully moving voice and an extraordinarily magnetic personality, the youth attracted a band of disciples who confirmed his own burning faith in himself. The sudden economic development of Smyrna at this period, and the rise of his father's fortunes, were attributed by his friends and followers to the singular glory of Sabbatai and he set to glorify his own conception of his mission. Finally, the terrible events

"It's a quaint old custom"

Washday in the home is gradually being relegated to the past, thanks to up-to-date laundries. The advancement made in laundry work has gradually won over even the fussiest of housewives. And why not? —since it costs less and is done better. For the greater convenience of its patrons this laundry provides a choice of eight different kinds of family wash services, ranging from simple damp wash to our completely finished service on men's shirts and collars. The prices, too, will find, are most moderate and all are done in soft water without any smoothing marring. Phone to-day—stop any one of our courteous driver-salesmen—or use our "cash and carry" department.

Among Toronto Jewish Women

Mrs. I. Travis (5 Spruce Hill Road, says: "One of the most wonderful women I know is my mother-in-law, Mrs. B. Travis. She came to Toronto 58 years ago from Pittsburgh where she was a prominent figure in the Jewish community. She was one of the organizers of the Ladies' Aid Society, later its vice president of the Montefiore Aid and is an active worker in the Community House, where she conducts sewing classes. In addition to what she has been able to do herself, she has instilled in her children the idea that it is their duty to serve the community to which they live. I. B. Travis, her son, is known in the Jewish community of Albany, N. Y., as one of its most active communal workers. Mrs. Ida I. In order to give greater weight to this objection we would realize that the organizational and the spiritual aspects inevitably contribute one on other. Not only do organizations impose upon spiritual emotional attitudes, to which they owe their existence and their continuance of duration, existing organizations in turn exert powerful influence upon the emotional attitudes of the people.

The present nationalistic movements have no rights developed reasons to run to be closely connected with the obligation of sustained political service or else it is more sophisticatedly called the people assert the State which demands political service in the citizen is obliged to call it into existence. [illegible] since been prosecuted with [illegible] every conceivable kind of [illegible]. From cultural angle[illegible] of the most sophisticated [illegible] to the primitive. And now the [illegible] Community of Berlin [illegible] for the founding of a Museum [illegible] with a definite program of [illegible] which includes not only plans [illegible] relating to the art collections [illegible] and securing more room [illegible] but further plans for filling [illegible] and enlarging the material [illegible] a complete picture as [illegible] is available for research. The [illegible] program of expansion, the [illegible] will do all it can towards [illegible] and sustaining interest in [illegible] museum so that its labors shall [illegible] not vain but add fuel to many [illegible] enthusiasms already in exist[illegible] which have their inception in [illegible] museum activity. The Society [illegible] pioneering for a good cause.

The distinguished German painter [illegible] Liebermann, who for many [illegible] was president of the community [illegible] of the work and the Rath [illegible] a curator of the congregation [illegible] existing art collections. Dr. [illegible] is undoubtedly the only [illegible] in the service of any Jewish congregation in the world—for one [illegible] is assured for the welcome [illegible] the project.

The present art collection of the Berlin congregation, which consists [illegible] a total of 15 synagogues in the [illegible] is the new museum. It goes [illegible] a modest name as "Office [illegible] Jewish art collection, Albert [illegible]." When in fall of 1907 the art [illegible] collection of early medals, [illegible] objects, and graphic art was [illegible] to Berlin. In 1917 it was [illegible] arranged to exhibit in a [illegible] moved into its large and [illegible] new home.

Under the guidance of Dr. [illegible] the collection has been [illegible] increased until now it is one [illegible] of present quarters. With the [illegible] giving it a new and ample [illegible] the Jewish Museum Society [illegible] founded in November, 28, [illegible] and it has ever since [illegible] various parts were made. To [illegible] plans to pursue orderly [illegible] the object of the Society's [illegible] several interests: Jewish [illegible] customs, especially as to art; [illegible] collection of the Jewish congregation of Berlin, and a Jewish Museum. To support the interest [illegible] of art and to collected and published [illegible] treatises, and essays supported."

There are similar museums in other German cities, Breslau, Kassel, and Hamburg, and a very fine one in Frankfort, on Main-Rhine-city, the private patronage which maintained the last was withdrawn and the museum had to be closed, but Berlin will very likely acquire it. Other museums exist in Prague, Warsaw, and Vienna, and in London, the leading art museums of the world have departments devoted to Jewish art, but only the Berlin museum has a collection of the works of modern Jewish artists and is worthy of being called special prize.

Among the works of modern Jewish painters is Samuel Hirszenberg's famous painting, "Golus." Young contemporary Jewish artists are represented in the works of Max Liebermann, Max Band, Hans Katz, & Pascin and others. Probably the best example of all the pieces in the modern exhibit is the original one of Moses Mendelssohn which the sculptor Lessner made in [illegible].

The entire Berlin collection is divided into seven groups and four [illegible] under the following heads: Palestine excavations, coins, medals, cultural objects, graphic art, plastic graphic and three modern art.

Palestine excavations are represented several interesting pieces of pottery, [illegible] plastic glass and glass work of different sorts. The coin collection includes several numismatic [illegible] of Palestine coins, many of them coming quite a far [illegible] Jewish era and a [illegible] complete series of Bonni Jewish Coins.

The collection of medals belonging most valuable is modern [illegible] exceptionally fine. Theodore Herzl, Jews and [illegible] all others are well shown, a series of medals [illegible] medallists, especially those [illegible] to be medallions of [illegible] and decorations regarding some [illegible] be Jews. Yes We have to [illegible] of Queen Esther. The museum is well represented in [illegible] work of Benno Elkan an eminent Zionist Bronze. [illegible] collection contains [illegible] many medallion portraits of [illegible] Jewish scientists [illegible] as commemorative [illegible] as portrait medallions.

The degree of interest aroused [illegible] interest as increasing. The collection [illegible] lection of priceless pieces of needlework includes numerous 18th century Torah tapestries, and one of special interest which King Frederick William I presented to the Berlin congregation in 1716. There are also Torah robes of various kinds and many tallis bags. Candelabra, goblets, religious ornaments and vessels, tableware for festival days, many pieces dating from antiquity, constitute a beautiful display.

The graphic art exhibit contains several thousand pictures of notable personalities and scenes of Jewish life. A number of caricatures are especially interesting. Books, valuable miniatures, and etchings of modern Jewish artists, constitute the rest of this division.

An exhaustive collection of photographs is especially significant for the educational purpose it serves. It consists of several thousand photographic reproductions of objects of the world's art in general and Jewish art in particular. When the new museum is completely organized this collection is expected to become a major source of information for research on Jewish art and history. Scholars of all parts of the world interested in these subjects have been severely handicapped because original material is scattered far and wide and what there is together is not exhaustive. The Berlin museum is already exchanging much of its material with leading European museums and an effort is being made to reach others. To make this collection it is planned to secure photographs of various private as well as public art collections.

The museum maintains a circulating library of two thousand slides depicting Jewish cultural life of the past and present. These slides relate to such diverse topics as Assyria, Egypt, Palestine, Asia Minor, Magi, the Middle Ages, Manuscript, Illustrated Books, Synagogues, Cemeteries and Tombstones, Coins and Medals, Objects of Art, Festivals, Jewish Artists, Non-Jewish Artists, Contemporary Jewish Life. The service maintained by the museum renders these slides available to all parts of Germany as well as foreign countries.

The graphic art exhibit is especially rich in prints and old etchings of Jewish life in Germany and bordering countries and it is interesting to note that synagogues were not always built in the "Moorish" style. From the prevailing synagogue architecture of today one might be led to believe that they always had been. Two centuries ago synagogue architecture both in Germany and Holland was in the contemporary Baroque style and if it was as lovely in reality as in these yellowed old prints, one must regret that the Moorish style has become so generally accepted.

Fingering through these ancient sheets is a lesson in art itself and this lesson can be applied to make the all too firm belief of many that the Jewish religion lacks inspirational qualities.

It would not be too optimistic to predict the appearance sometime in the near future of several publications on Jewish art with the collection of the Berlin congregation as a source.

DOES YOUR CHILD SEE?

When a child is blind in both eyes, the condition is, of course, recognized. There are many children, however, who have defective sight which is unknown to their parents. That this is so is evidenced by the number of children entering school who are found by school physicians to have defective eyesight.

The good work done by the school health services does not provide for the pre-school child, or for the child who attends a school where there is no school physician or nurse.

A child should be able to recognize a picture or object one-half an inch square at twenty feet. Each eye is tested separately, one eye being covered with a card during the test of the other. For near vision, a picture book may be used. If there is any appreciable defect in either eye, whether far near or distant, the family physician should be consulted.

Cross-eye is a condition which is frequently neglected because of the parents' ignorance as to its significance. Children with this condition often through use and the other becoming useless because it is not used.

Unless the condition is properly treated early, the child loses the use of one eye and is actually blind in that eye. If the child is treated before the age of five years of age, the most or all of his vision can be saved; the longer treatment is delayed, the more vision is lost. Cross-eye is a condition which does not correct itself. Children do not outgrow it.

If the child is placed sitting, facing the parent, an arm's length away, with one eye covered by the parent's hand, and is made to look at the parent's nose with the uncovered eye, the parent will find that, on uncovering the other eye, it is found looking at the nose, which means that no cross-eye is present, or that the child's eye or eyes, as contained condition should be placed under medical care without delay. A cross-eyed child sees double. This causes confusion and the mind trains itself to disregard the image that comes to it through the straight eye. This results in one eye being denied its use, which in an adult means that cross-eye is present.
